their claims. The impression prevails that in Mr. Klinck's case the office is seking the man, rather than the customary way, and perhaps that's partially true, but all local politicans do not believe it. He has been a successful business man, a representative citizen, and, although without experience izen, and, although without experience in municipal matters, might become an local mayor. It is now nearly three months to election time however, and in that period Mr. Klinch's candidacy way be greatly strengthened and he to the only one, the people's choice for vayor; and it may be otherwise. In the words of the late David Scott Ruddeck of the New London Evening Star. that twinkles and shines no more: "Wait and see; time will tell."

It really does look as if the moving picture and vaudeville business was to stay in New London, for already a new and modern playhouse has been built built and modernized. Besides these, there is the playhouse in the old Metrepolitum, and the Lyceum theater is also devoted mainly to vaudeville and pletures. In consequence of these
